Course description

Students will study the principles of digital design, working with photos, videos, images, and animation to produce multimedia content. They will use tools such as digital cameras, photo editing software, and their own imagination to create eye catching, ear grabbing, visual and audio files for social media and other platforms.

What can this course lead to?

The course could lead onto accredited courses in the subject, or onto other Northern College digital courses, such as software development, where the material created in this course could be used.
