Introduction to Creating Webpages (NonReg / Introduction)

This course is designed for beginners with little to no prior experience in creating webpages and it provides a hands-on introduction to building and linking webpages. You will add text, images, and even video to your website, while learning about how the Internet works and gaining an insight into the world of web design.

What are the entry requirements?

There are no formal requirements and no prior knowledge of creating webpages is required. However, students will be required to have completed the Next Steps in Computers course, or already have digital skills equivalent to those listed in that course's description.
